William Newport Goodell: painter, craftsman, teacher

William Newport Goodell

Still Life with Artist

Oil on canvas

circa 1926

Frame made by William Newport Goodell

Collection of Jean Barrett Holloway

In February we opened the exhibition William Newport Goodell: painter, craftsman, teacher. This exhibition and accompanying catalog tells the story of William Newport Goodell's life through the presentation of his artwork, supplemented by artifacts and photographs that add to the narration of his personal journey and relationship to La Jolla. Goodell (1908-1999) was a long time La Jolla resident who taught art, art history, and drama as a faculty member at La Jolla Country Day School from 1961 to 1983. The exhibition is presented at the La Jolla Historical Society through May 22, and at the Athenaeum Music & Arts Library through April 16.

Preservation 50

This month we began a series of activities, listed below, in recognition of the 50th Anniversary of the National Historic Preservation Act, which was signed into law by President Johnson on October 15, 1966. It was this legislation that gave birth to the historic preservation movement in the United States, and served as the catalyst for programs at the State and local levels, including those in California and San Diego. Look for announcements of future activities and events over the next several months.
