

Collection Use and Reproduction Fees

The La Jolla Historical Society retains all rights to reproduction for photographs and works from the Collection as the institution protecting said Collections in the public trust to the fullest extent of the law.

All reproductions must be credited as follows: “Courtesy of the La Jolla Historical Society” in a caption or credit. Permission is granted to one-time, non-exclusive use only.

Use fees are per image/per scan and will be delivered via email or online download. LJHS members receive discounts according to their level of membership. The LJHS may require that once completed, one copy of the product containing the reproduction be furnished at no charge for all non-personal uses.

Personal use is defined as: no public or commercial use, for personal research or personal display in the home. Does not include any digital formats or any rights to use images online, including but not limited to social media and websites.
